Important Information

GENERAL INFORMATION

This application applies to multi-family residential developments owned by housing finance corporations pursuant to Local Government Code Chapter 394.

Under Local Government Code Section 394.9027(b), a housing finance corporation or housing finance corporation user that claims an ad valorem tax exemption for a multifamily residential development must annually submit to the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs an audit report for a compliance audit.

The housing finance corporation may not retaliate against a tenant or tenant's guests by taking specific actions because the tenant established or attempted to establish, or participated in a tenant organization.

FILING INSTRUCTIONS

File this application and all supporting documentation with the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs and the chief appraiser in each county in which the development is located. Do not file this document with the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts. Contact information for appraisal district offices is located on the Comptroller's website.

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTATION

The resolution adopted by the housing finance corporation's board of directors.

Any other supporting documentation requested by the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs or the chief appraiser from the appraisal district in which the development is located.

NON-QUALIFIERS

A multifamily residential development acquired by the housing finance corporation before May 28, 2025 is not eligible for an exemption under Local Government Code Section 394.906, unless the housing finance corporation comes into compliance no later than Jan. 1, 2026, pursuant to Local Government Code Section 394.9026.

A multifamily residential development owned by a housing finance corporation, or a housing finance corporation user is not entitled to an ad valorem tax exemption for any given tax year in which the corporation or the housing finance corporation user:

- is not in compliance with any provisions of Local Government Code Section 394.9026(c) and;
 - notice requirements in Local Government Code Section 394.9027(d) have been fulfilled; and
 - the noncompliance is not resolved to the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs' satisfaction within 180 days after the date written notice of noncompliance is received or
- has not timely submitted the audit report required by Tax Code Section 394.9027

A conservation or reclamation district created under Texas Constitution Article III, Section 52 or Article XVI, Section 59 that provides water, sewer or drainage service to the development, unless the applicable corporation has entered into a written agreement with the district to make a payment to the district in lieu of taxation, in the amount specified in the agreement; or an emergency services district created under Health and Safety Code Chapter 775, unless the applicable corporation has entered into a written agreement with the district to make a payment to the district in lieu of taxation, in the amount specified in the agreement.

Definitions (Local Government Code Sec. 394.9026)

The housing finance corporation must use the definition of annual income as described in title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Section 5.609, as implemented by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Housing Choice Voucher Program: is as defined under title 42 of the U.S. Code, Section 1437(f).

Housing finance corporation user:

- a housing finance corporation; or
- for a multifamily residential development that is not owned directly by a housing finance corporation, public-private partnership entity or developer or other person or entity that has an ownership interest in a leasehold or other possessory interest in multifamily residential development financed or supported by a housing finance corporation.

Lower-income housing unit: a residential unit reserved for occupancy by an individual or family earning not more than 60 percent of the area median income, adjusted for family size, as defined by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Maximum market rent: with respect to a particular income-restricted unit, the average annual rent charged for all non-income-restricted units in the development having the same or substantially similar floor plan as the income-restricted unit.

Middle-income housing unit: a residential unit reserved for occupancy by an individual or family earning not more than 100 percent of the area median income, adjusted for family size, as defined by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Moderate-income housing unit: a residential unit reserved for occupancy by an individual or family earning not more than 80 percent of the area median income, adjusted for family size, as defined by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Multifamily residential development: is any residential development consisting of four or more residential units intended for occupancy as rentals, regardless of whether the units are attached or detached.

Rent: any recurring fee or charge a tenant is required to pay as a condition of occupancy, including a fee or charge for the use of a common area or facility reasonably associated with residential rental property. The term does not include fees and charges for services or amenities that are optional for a tenant, such as pet fees and fees for storage or covered parking.

Rent reduction: the projected difference between the rent charged for an income-restricted unit and the maximum market rent that could be charged for that same unit without the income restrictions.

Very low-income housing unit: a residential unit reserved for occupancy by an individual or family earning not more than 50 percent of the area median income, adjusted for family size, as defined by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.
